

Exquisite Comics #4

A GREAT
healing sign was witnessed. The land began to
sigh once
more...

winter coat change

the summer

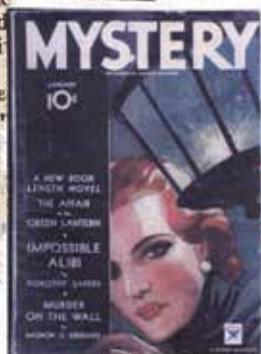

TONIGHT

Ms. Teri

'g you

so
the
it
is
drawn
turned
suit
we go
in
all the
fashion
deep
that
cept
y is
it's
but
re
ing
d
even
ass
f much
avail.
f
fc

To die before we
die. This is the hidden way to
nothing,
to the
unmaking,
to the

of Ms Teri's impossible to explain notes create a

in some, but others

understand the delicious orange zest spice flavour that mystery plays

CITY OF ASTIC
amazin a fantastic city
spectacle

paintings, Dali has designed ballet and written several books. He is a well-known sculptor. His art is often used to persuade to believe in Communism and to think that art, where art ent to Communism politis.
, to the left of N.O.C.
parties. He writes an Daily. He has a telegram
But he is not known no
or the name of his fam-
on collaboratin

stated.

Picasso

DMR
PrSrh
HD
LJS

What have we done
to the fields?

What
is in
the
ground?

to the

ALMOND'S

BY ETHELREEF

the platform shaking
comes a very large
grey

The prompt for Exquisite Comics #4 was 'Mystery Plays'. And fittingly, the eighth completed panel of the comic vanished, it's whereabouts a mystery.

Exquisite Comics #4

Exquisite Comics is a game of 'exquisite corpse' in comic-book form. There are four players, eight panels, envelopes, stamps and a pile of imagination. The players exchange the part-completed panels with each other through the post, until all have contributed to each panel. None of them sees all the other panels in progress until the eight are complete. Finally, the panels are randomly assembled into an order that reveals (or otherwise) the previously unconscious storyline.

Exquisite Comics #4 was played by Linda Bromilow, Su Jackson, Tabitha Jussa, and Slim Smith